Continuation of 5. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because: applicant's arguments are not persusive. For example, applicant argues that the cooling fins, fan, or jacket of Ishii et al. do not control the slot electrode and wavelength reducing member in a perdetermined range of temperatures. However, a range of temperatures can be maintained by simply turning the cooling device on/off, by adjusting the speed level of the cooling fan, or by adjusting the temperature of the water in the cooling jacket.
